about us – Architecture Sans Frontières International

ASF Int is an independent and non-hierarchical network of non-profit design organisations implementing local and global actions concerned with social justice, the cultural and environmental aspects of architecture and the conservation of the heritage.

Currently we gather 33 chapters in 5 continents. The trust, support, ability to share knowledge and experience together with ability to interfere with other global organisations and events on behalf of ASF int community helps us to achieve a greater impact of collective efforts, getting funds and realisation of the projects.

All actions taken from Peru to Australia have one thing in common- declaration of principles. According to The Hasselt Charter created in 2005 in Rome, all organisations in ASF community pledge to work together at an international level in order to spread design education, increase standards of living, provide help for post disasterous and vulnerable communities.

ARCHITECTURE FOR THE FUTURE GENERATION

architecture – education – ecology

DESCRIPTION:

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights says: "Everyone has the right to education." There is no doubt that education is the key to building a better world - improving personal and social conditions, eliminating inequalities, preventing poverty, exploitation, and building democracy.

Architecture is essential in this process, because schools, cultural centers, social welfare, nursing homes, orphanages and other – they are not only spaces to live, these are symbols of a better future.

Today, we see more clearly that the future depends on ecology.

It is not possible to talk about respecting and saving environmental resources in places where children don't have access to education, they are being abused and forced to work.

SUGGESTED DISCUSSION:

- How is architecture a tool to ensure basic human rights: the right to education? (Especially in times of increasing civilization problems: ecological, migration, economic?)
- What should be the role of the architect in times of depleting natural resources, ongoing war conflicts, mass war and economic migration? How to design for future generations?
- How, for whom and for what purpose - exchange of participants' experiences

Public toilets for all, Nepal 2019

The main goal of the project is to help the newly created municipal communes in construction, maintenance and modernization of public toilets in an ecologically sustainable way, accessible to all users and economically viable. An important aspect of the project is also improving the overall health of residents of the municipalities and support local authorities in achieving various functions in field of public sanitation.

In most developing countries, it can be observed that development of technology in the construction sector displaces traditional architecture in favor of universal (global) architecture. It does not take into account natural climatic conditions and rejects traditional local crafts and materials.

Educational and Cultural Centre, Uganda 2019

The area of Kiruddu is covered by missionary help in various forms: doctors, teachers and other non-profit organizations, who are coming to support local communities, to show a human solidarity. To help raise those activities, we have decided to design a place, which will support those initiatives by creating a peaceful environment and surroundings. Place, that will emphasize and develop local culture and architecture at the same time.

The project assumes creation of a cultural and educational center for volunteers and missionaries cooperating with the foundation "African Children", which for many years supports the local community in various areas of life.

Therapeutical green courtyard, Poland 2019

Global help is not the only activity of ASF Poland. Our efforts are focused on providing support locally as well. One of the current projects concerns renovation of existing entrance and building a new pavillion for therapeutic purposes of Empowering Children Foundation at Przybyszewskiego street in Warsaw. Existing courtyard is going to change into playground and relaxing zone, with climbing wall and a tree house.
